HOW IT BEGAN.
"I want a weekly sports column," said the Editor with a hopeful gleam in his eye.

The prospective columnist looked doubtful and mumbled something about columns needing a lot of words and there not being much sport to write about.

"Come! Come!" barked the Editor in his best editorial manner. "Last year you always very successfully wrote more and said less than anyone else. It'll be a cinch for you."

Such flattery overwhelmed the prospect, he beamed happily and another column came into being.

WHY THE NAME.

Horse racing enthusiasts, who may have been attracted by the title of this effort, are due for a disappointment; and prophecies to be made here are unlikely to have much to do with horses. The main reason for the name was to indicate that this column will not confine itself solely to sports; anything else deemed worthy of comment, on the campus or off, is liable to become a part of the "Daily Double."

THE NEW SET UP.

To get down to business—the idea is probably pretty general by now that in addition to the complete cessation of Intercollegiate Athletics, sport around McGill is due for considerable reorganization. According to a resolution passed by the Athletic Council, all athletics will be reorganized on an inter-company basis. The five companies already announced will each enter teams in the various competitions. If a sixth company is formed, teams from it are also expected to enter competition, as are those from the C.O.T.C. No announcement has yet been made as to what sports will actually be scheduled but they'll probably include most, if not all those formerly played.

Of the three training periods per week, one will be occupied with Physical Training, under the Athletic board. It is expected that in addition to the usual games and exercises, mass training in boxing, wrestling, fencing and gymnastics will be given by the heads of those departments, assisted by student instructors.

MEN IN WHITE.

A regulation gym outfit will be worn, which will consist of white, quarter sleeve jerseys, white shorts, white socks and running shoes. This outfit is the same as that worn by the army and arrangements are being made by the Athletic Office to sell them to students at a price of about four dollars. A twelve hour laundry service will ensure that there will be no difficulty in keeping uniforms clean. Prospective buyers are requested to wait for notice that the Athletic Office actually has the outfits before attempting to buy them.

Instead of coaches there will likely be organizers for each sport. For instance Doug Kerr has offered his services to get a football league going and under his enthusiastic guidance it should be highly successful. It is expected that each platoon, of which there will be four to six in a company, will elect its own sports representative who will work under the company representative.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL TO TAKE SALUTE; C.O.T.C. CADETS TO PROVIDE GUARD OF HONOR

24 GRADUATE
Degrees to Be Awarded at Convocation

CEREMONY ELABORATE

Grenadiers to Mount Guard at Tomb of James
McGill

Members of the McGill C.O.T.C. have undergone special training and received new equipment in preparation for their duties as Vice-Regal Guard of Honour for His Excellency, The Earl of Athlone, Governor General of Canada, at Convocation next Monday, October 7th.

The ceremonies this year will be of a more elaborate nature than formerly, because of the presence of His Excellency and the unusual circumstances arising from the war. Seventeen members of the C.O.T.C. contingent have been trained in the intricacies of ceremonial drill and the cadets have been issued uniforms. These are the regular battle dress.

On his arrival at the Arts building at 3.30, the Governor-General will take the salute and inspect the C.O.T.C. and the detachment of H.M. Canadian Grenadier Guards who will mount guard at the tomb of James McGill after which both units will proceed to the armory for the remainder of the ceremonies. The band of the Grenadiers will play from 4.00 to 4.30, when Convocation opens.

The Convocation Address will be delivered by His Excellency, who will also receive the degree of Doctor of Laws from the University. By virtue of the Royal Charter held by the University, the Governor-General assumes the title of Visitor to McGill.

Students who have been awarded scholarships will be presented with these during the ceremonies, and congratulated by His Excellency. More than a hundred scholarships are to be presented. A number of degrees will also be conferred. The following is a list of graduates to be presented with diplomas of the Faculty of Arts and Science:

B.A.
Bonier, Norma Margaret—Town of Mount Royal, Que.
Cameron, Mary Frances—Montreal.
Etienne, James Archibald—Town of Mount Royal, Que.

Hackett, Julia—Montreal.
Parent, Madeleine Pauline—Westmount.

Pugh, Dorothy Jean—Outremont.
Purdie, Hugh James—Shawinigan Falls, Que.

Smith, Stanley Alfred—Montreal (2nd class honors in Classics).

NOMINEE LISTS TO OPEN TODAY

Arts and Science Candidates to Be Named

Date of Election Tentatively Set for October
22nd

Nominations for class officers in all years of Arts and Science officially open today. Candidates' names may be handed in any time between now and one o'clock on October 15, at Bill Gentleman's office in the Arts building. Each nomination must be signed by at least ten of the candidate's classmates before it will be placed on the ballot.

Positions to be filled at this election, tentatively set for October 22nd, are: president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer of each class. Successful candidates hold office for one year.

CANDIDATES TO SPEAK.

Candidates will be given an opportunity to present their qualifications and proposed platforms at the fall Arts and Science Smoker, the date of which has not yet been announced.

The date of the election this year is later than usual, in consideration for the Freshman class, which, in past years, has voted before Freshman Reception week has given these students an opportunity to become acquainted with their classmates. The Arts Undergraduate Society has set the date for this year's election one week later than usual.

Pen and Ink Sketches Are On Exhibition

Work of Henri Julien Is Displayed at Chateau de Ramezay

By S. S.

An exhibition of 75 original pen and ink sketches by the late Henri Julien, well known cartoonist for the Montreal Star, is now being held at the Chateau de Ramezay. Many of the drawings have been lent by the McCord Museum of McGill University while others were donated for the occasion from the collections of Montreal families.

Mr. Julien's strong sense of humor predominates in many of his works and he has shown remarkable skill in his portrayal of facial expressions. A set of 19 illustrations on the Rebellion of 1837 were featured in an article in the Montreal Star 1887 and these are a noteworthy part of the exhibition.

Of particular interest is his portrayal of a stern schoolmaster with a little boy over his knee and a birch rod in his hand. His numerous other sketches include those of a peanut vendor and organ grinder although for the most part the sketches are of a serious character. The exhibition will remain open until October 13.

R.V.C. NOMINATIONS CLOSE OCTOBER 8TH

Nominations for offices in R.V.C. upper years open today. All nominations are required to be handed in at the Porter's office, R.V.C., before one o'clock on Tuesday, October 8th. As usual, each nomination must be signed by at least ten names. The offices to be filled are in the 2nd, 3rd, and 4th years, and include: President, Vice-president, Secretary-treasurer, and M.W.S.A.A. representative for each class; valedictorian and class prophet for 4th year.

CONVERSAT IS HELD TONIGHT

Upperclassmen and Frosh to Attend Annual Affair

S.C.M. Plans Movies, Dancing, Refreshments; Colson Is M.C.

Tonight's the night for the annual S.C.M. Conversat in Strathcona Hall. Proceedings commenced promptly at 8.30 p.m. Last year's number system is again being used to assign partners and Freshmen have been advised to arrive early.

Stewart Colson will act as Master of Ceremonies for the occasion and the varied program will include a quiz to test the Freshies' gullibility, and coloured motion pictures taken at the McGill Convocation of 1940. Following this there will be music and dancing to test the terpsichorean abilities of the newcomers.

Smashing all precedent, upperclassmen will be permitted to take part in the activities for the sum of twenty-five cents. Freshmen and Freshettes need only their familiar green ribbons as their tickets of admittance.

Strathcona Hall will be decorated with streamers and balloons in honour of the event and the hosts of the occasion extend a hearty welcome to all Freshies and Upperclassmen, but please remember . . . Freshies present their green ribbons and Upperclassmen their quarters.

Frosh Discard Emerald Bows Sunday; Smiles Still Requested

Green ribbons will still be in evidence around the campus until Sunday night, when Freshmen will be permitted to discard the badge of initiation. Until that time, however, it was announced that only green ribbons will bring admittance to the balance of the Freshman week activities.

Topping the list is the S.C.M. Conversat tonight, where the ribbon takes the place of a quarter in bringing an evening of dancing and entertainment.

All Freshmen will shortly receive invitations to the Professors' Tea.

NOTICE TO GRADUATE STUDENTS CONCERNING MILITARY TRAINING AND MEDICAL EXAMINATION

Graduate students, who are British subjects, are reminded that it is necessary to arrange for a medical examination before proceeding to their compulsory military training.

An appointment for this examination should be made with Dr. F. G. Pedley either directly or through Miss Cresswell at the Student Health Offices, Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium-Armoury (P.L. 1881).

All these examinations must be completed before the 12th of October. Students who have not been examined before that date will be fined $10.00 and suspended from the University until they have complied with the regulation.

PLUMBER OPEN HOUSE INVADDED BY FRESHETTES

Engineering Undergrad President Welcomes Freshmen

DEAN BROWN SPEAKS

High Tension and Gas Labs Highlights of Tour

By S.A.S.

The sanctity of the Engineer's Open House was violated last night when two Freshettes from Architecture put in an appearance. Although a warm welcome was extended them, they looked so lost among the one hundred and fifty Freshmen Engineers who were present.

The purpose of the evening was to show the Freshmen the inner workings of the Engineering building. The evening got under way with a short meeting in Room 33 where the Frosh were greeted by the Engineering Undergrad President Vic Savage. The Freshmen were formally inducted into the Engineering Undergraduate Society by performing the ritual of shaking hands and introducing themselves to their various neighbours.

Dean Welcomes Frosh.

Dean Brown of the Faculty of Engineering then spoke briefly to the Freshmen stressing the importance of co-operation and teamwork in order to be good Engineers. He then asked all the Engineers to be present at the convocation where the Earl of Athlone, Governor-General of Canada, would speak on the military training which all students will partake of and also of Canada's war effort.

The gathering was then divided into groups so that the tour could get under way. The first stop was the test lab where a bar of mild steel, after being subjected to a pull of 28,800 lbs., was pulled apart.

Also an attempt was made to crush a concrete pillar but the first try failed. A second attempt was then made and after 75 tons of pressure was exerted, the pillar finally crumbled. The next stop was the electrical lab where a cathode ray machine was set up showing the components of the sound which a dance band was giving out.

Machines Demonstrated.

Air-compressors, steam motors, lathes, shapers and magnetic stoves came next in line but the highlights of the evening's show were

FUNDS SOUGHT FOR RED CROSS

Jackson Dodds Thanks Students for Generous Help

Class Presidents Will Accept Subscriptions to McGill Campaign

The McGill Red Cross drive goes into its second day on the campus today with the students' donations being added to the nation wide campaign.

In a statement to the Daily last night Mr. Jackson Dodds, Vice-president for the Province of Quebec and Vice Chairman of the Dominion General Council, said "Under the able leadership of Mr. R. N. Watt and the Honourable Mr. Groulx a wonderful campaign is being carried to a satisfactory end. Though the City of Quebec's subscriptions were down $43,000 I think that the campaign will go over the top despite the War Loans and the War Saving certificates."

He added that many new Red Cross districts have done exceptionally well and it is hoped that McGill will do likewise. Mr. Dodds also thanked sincerely all the professors and students here "who have helped and subscribed so generously."

McGill Co-ed Models for Advertisement

By G. D.

The beauty of McGill's co-eds has at last been recognized by the outside world. Such eminent authorities as the Commercial Advertising Agency, in their search for beautiful faces to picture in the well known Hudson beauty preparation ads, unwittingly stumbled upon Peggy Keohan, one of McGill's Fair co-eds. Her picture now graces the pages of newspapers across Canada.

Peggy was weighed and measured along with twelve other young hopefuls. After long, monotonous hours which were spent under the brilliant glare of lights facing the camera, Peggy came out of the ordeal a little the worse for wear but on top.

"Those who have any qualms as to what their careers will be after their B.A. course, should keep modelling in mind," says Peggy, who would like now to make it her career.

Two Hours Optional Athletics; Only Physically Fit Affected

As recently announced by Principal F. Cyril James, McGill's national service effort includes provision for training of its women students along with the military training of the men. The character of that program is revealed today. "The Senate of McGill University, at its meeting on Wednesday afternoon, approved the institution of a special program for the training of women students in a way that will enable them to make appropriate contributions to the Dominion's war effort if they should be called upon to do so. This new requirement was approved by the Board of Governors yesterday, and is intended to offer to the women students of the University opportunities comparable to those which men students enjoy under the terms of the Compulsory Military Training program which was put into effect at the beginning of the present session."

According to the schedule which becomes operative on October 21st, all women of the University will be enrolled in a two-fold training program. Emphasis is placed on the need for health and physical fitness in time of war, and accordingly provision is made for a fundamental course in physical training linked with this is a carefully worked out program in first aid and home nursing.

Four Hours Per Week Required.
As to the appropriate content of the Women's Training program, many suggestions have been received by the University authorities from various sources, and these have been studied by a special committee under the Chairmanship of Dr. Muriel Roscoe, Warden of the Royal Victoria College, as well as by the Department of Physical Education. As a result of this study, it has been decided that all women students should participate in a physical training program, as well as in a special course of First Aid and Home Nursing. This latter course, is being developed by the Faculty of Medicine and the School for Graduate Nurses, in consultation with the St. Johns Ambulance Association and the Canadian Red Cross Society, and it is expected that all women students will be required to obtain the joint certificate of these organizations at the conclusion of the course.

Intramurals Provided.
In the projected scheme, two hours per week of physical activity are required of all women students who pass the medical examination. Also required are two hours attendance at lectures, demonstrations, etc., in first aid and home nursing groups. Organized in small units, the students will work for certificates of proficiency in both first aid and home nursing and will attend lectures touching personal and community health. With all inter-collegiate games both for men and women cancelled this year, it has been considered desirable to include in the complete program an optional two-hour period for intramural games.

Time-Tables Worked Out.
This four-hour compulsory wartime addition to the normal curriculum for women students at McGill University is less heavy than that imposed upon the men students, but it will provide a very definite opportunity for the women students to prepare themselves for definite contributions in any emergency that may arise. It is, moreover, expected that, since the women's requirement demands two hours less per week than that to which the men are subject, this

Presbyterian College To House I.L.O.

The International Labour Organization which recently fled to McGill from Geneva will be housed in the Presbyterian College and not in the Faculty Club as announced in yesterday's Daily. The Labour Organization was until recently established in the Arts Building and having outgrown these quarters, due to the generosity of the Board of Governors of the Presbyterian College it will be housed in David Morrice Hall temporarily. The building formerly occupied by the McGill Contingent C.O.T.C. and the Department of Physical Education is at present being renovated so as to be turned over to the I.L.O. for its use. These new quarters will be at 3480-3484 University street.

Intramural Athletics

In these days of crisis and trial it is obligatory for every university student to consider the means by which he can best aid the cause. . . . preparedness is one method open to all. We do not, of necessity, suggest that students should spend all their waking hours which are not put in at study, doing military training, on the contrary we are strongly against any such suggestion. However, it is well to point out that "the fighting spirit, discipline, efficiency and esprit de corps of a unit are bound up with the physical fitness of its personnel." (Physical Training 1937, p. 7.)

How then can we best prepare ourselves to meet any future exigency? Above all we must develop physical fitness. While it is not the contention that students should attain a high degree of efficiency in all forms and types of athletics, we are suggesting that activities should be so conducted that they will develop fair ability in sports and games and sufficient stamina to withstand the physical activity that may be required later.

A certain amount of P.T. is being provided for students by the Department of Physical Education as an integral part of the basic military training plan at the University. But the development of a proper esprit de corps requires something further, and thus the entire athletic program has been co-ordinated with military training.

A complete program of physical training requires not only P.T. exercises designed to develop response to command, uniformity of movement, marching smartness etc., but also exercise which will develop agility, group spirit, desire for co-operation and esprit de corps. An intramural athletic program can provide these as well as recreation for the majority of students.

Actively co-operating in the intramural athletic program, which will be planned on an inter-company and inter-platoon basis, are the University authorities, the Students' Athletic Council and the Managerial Board. A great deal of difficulty has been experienced in working out the plan and a great deal of time has been spent on organizing the project. It is expected that the time and energy expended will bear fruit during the coming months when the program is actively under way.

While the managers of the various sports and activities have not all completed final arrangements and details as yet, nevertheless they will do so in the near future, and it is hoped that the individual students, whose co-operation is required for the success of the project, will carefully consider the list of activities concerned and select their sport or sports. Military training will take three periods a week, but every student ought to get in some form of exercise at least once a day, thus leaving three days for competitive group sports.

The necessity for enthusiastic co-operation in the entire athletics program is

Music Notes

Orchestra Carries On

"Music in these nerve-ridden days has proved to be much more than a luxury. In England it has become a necessity and the demand for concerts has been insistent. Here too, and especially during the long winter, music will be needed more than ever." That is the keynote of the Montreal Orchestra's coming season. Taking a cue from the Mother country where the war has seen the spread of popular-priced concerts throughout the country, the Orchestra has released its Fall prospectus with the announcement that an imposing group of soloists has been engaged.

As in the past, ten concerts will be given on alternate Sunday afternoons in His Majesty's Theatre, commencing November 3. Douglas Clarke, Dean of the Faculty of Music, will again conduct the entire series.

The soloist at the first concert will be the well-known American pianist Charles Naegele. Other pianists to be heard in this series are Leonard Shure and Shura Cherkassky.

Two more solo pianists have been engaged but both are celebrated for their compositions rather than their keyboard mastery. On December 1, Bela Bartok, the outstanding

OPENS NEW SEASON NEXT MONTH

DOUGLAS CLARKE

Hungarian composer, will appear, presumably in one of his own works. Bartok is, of course, ranked with the foremost musical creators of the Twentieth century.

The afternoon of January 25 Anis Fuleihan, an American composer, born in Cyprus, will be the soloist. It is expected that he too will play one of his own works. Fuleihan's Third Concerto was given here two seasons back, with Eugene List at the piano, following its New York premiere.

Georges Enesco, a perennial favorite with Montreal audiences and Rumania's outstanding composer, will be the violinist at an early February concert, while the American violinist Kathleen Parlow will play with the orchestra on December 15. Maria Marova, a soprano, is to sing at the season's second concert, November 17.

Recital Series

A series of Master Song Recitals will be presented by Victor Brault's singers at the concert hall of the McGill Conservatorium of Music on Monday evenings, October 7, 21 and 28; November 4, 18 and 25; December 2 and 9. The programs will be given by well-known radio singers and the first to be heard next Monday are: Mrs. Franklin West, soprano, Mr. Pierre Vidor, tenor, and Mr. Arthur Messier, baritone. These singers will be heard in songs by Beethoven, Schumann, Schubert, Grieg, Tchaikovsky, Arne, Bishop, Chopin.

obvious. Very little need be said regarding its desirability, though it might be well to point out that without an inter-collegiate program there is a greater opportunity for a greater number to take part in athletic competition. There is a greater probability that a true feeling of sportsmanship will develop and that our recreative games will give us what they should, a vigorous and healthy student body which is well able to withstand the grind of a heavy physical, mental and military training program.

Student Voice

The Daily column bearing the above heading which has appeared every few days for a great many years is published for a specific purpose, namely giving students an opportunity to express their opinion in print. From time to time controversial topics arise at McGill and as a rule there is much discussion in the common-rooms of the various buildings, in Strathcona Hall, in the Union Reading Room and, if a meeting of the Students' Society is called, in the Union Ballroom. Then too there is an open forum of opinion in "The Student Voice".

The column is for the use of students and you are all invited to express your views in a "letter to the editor" whenever you feel that your particular thought, be it complaint or praise, ought to be brought to the attention of your fellows. The only limitation on the use of "The Student Voice" is contained in an editorial note which appears on the top of the column—"Letter to the Editor must be accompanied by the name and address of the sender to show the author's good faith, but anonymity will be respected on request."

We Are Not Alone

Reprinted from the Vermont Cynic

We are not alone—none of us are alone—in thinking that things, mundanely speaking, are in a pretty hash. We are not alone in regretting mistakes—not simply our own mistakes, but those made by people and countries utterly beyond our control. We can't blame ourselves, luckily, for these. We can't really blame anything or anyone. As a matter of fact, what earthly good would it do to blame anything? Regrets are stupidity. Words are a waste of time. And gloom is unbearable. But if you meet someone wallowing around making flippant gay remarks about the whole world mess—that's the person to squash down with one swift blow. It isn't anything to be flippant about. It's something to think deeply about; we should have started doing just that a year ago, two years ago, five years ago. We should have done more than think, we should have acted. But this isn't trying to be a contemporary history tract. It's simply trying to be an echo of the words of James Hilton: "Humanity Can Be Saved." This is another theory of world politics, one that brings them right down to the man in the streets. For humanity can be saved. Not by a change of presidents, not by a third term, not by a shake-up in all of the governments of Europe. Humanity can be saved right in your own walk of life, in your cities, in your tiny villages, in short, in yourselves. In other words, if we all get to work and get a revolution going in ourselves, if we all take a cosmopolitan view of the great "I" and think of it as "we," if we treat it as "we," and don't let it get away with a thing, if we preach to ourselves the Christian doctrine, the human doctrine of love . . . then humanity can be saved. . . . To do this, and make a go of it, you have to be an idealist, as most of us are in some way or other, and you have to have the grit that it takes and, moreover, no one can drag in the other direction.

That is enough to stop almost anyone—that about dragging in the other direction. Because there is always someone, usually more than someone, usually quite a crowd who are out to stake their own claims, and woe to the rest. We have to expect that; we have to fight against it. The surest way of fighting it is to build up a terrific resistance in ourselves. We have to start a landslide, a whole series of landslides. If we work hard enough, and make noise enough, our landslide will be so big as to bury them under.

Peace-time Draft—An American View

Peacetime military conscription is here, whether we like it or not. Strangely enough the consensus on the campus has changed considerably since last spring. Many who were then opposed to conscription are now in favor of the draft.

This change of attitude has been noticed all over the United States as students and faculty groups in increasing number have concluded that a draft is necessary.

Hilter's surprising gains in the European war probably have contributed a great deal toward this change of opinion. The belief that the Fuehrer soon will control virtually all of Europe has frightened many into a willingness to take any step, regardless of its consequences.

Volunteers Inadequate

Further arguments to support the contention of those who believe that conscription is necessary are that voluntary enlistment would not be adequate to provide a sufficient and well-trained army for defence; and that, contrary to the belief of many, democracy still would exist in the United States.

Another factor which may have been an important one as far as students are concerned is that all University men who have completed or are now enrolled in military science courses will be exempt from service until July.

Opponents of the Burke-Wadsworth bill insisted, however, that Hilter has no military designs on the United States and that our democracy would be destroyed if military training was made compulsory.

Military View

It also has been pointed out that from a military standpoint the bill is a poor one; that men from 17 to 21 make the best army pilots because of their ability to react rapidly to a stimulus, to sense danger quickly and to take the proper steps immediately; and that persons over 35 are the best qualified for trench warfare as they are willing to stand up under the greatest hardships. They are more stable, more dependable, have sounder judgment and are more capable of independent thinking.

Many believe that men in their forties, those who have reared their families and have fewer dependents, are the ones who should do most of the fighting in the next war, leaving the younger to keep industry moving, raise families and provide for the civilians as well as the army men.

But the battle is over. All issues will now be laid aside and the young men of America will comply with the will of Congress which, many believe, is the will of the people. —Daily Athenaeum.

Scissors And Paste

Wielding a pair of shears and a dripping glue brush while fingering through a mass of college daily and weekly journals may appear a slightly dull (not to say messy) job to some. But it has its occasional bright moments. One of these is the item, culled from the Harvard Crimson, about the first political-party club formed on the Harvard campus to campaign in the current presidential race.

This club is not an organization of Rooseveltian third-term Democrats; neither is it composed of rump, or anti-New Deal Democrats. Moreover, it is not a G.O.P. society and definitely not a group formed to further the presidential aspirations of that perennial standard-bearer of the Socialists, Mr. Norman Thomas.

No! This club is composed of followers of Roger Babson, presidential candidate of the venerable Prohibition Party and it is "confident at least of a moral victory."

The president of this little unit says his Prohibitionists plan to use revival methods to obtain converts and will campaign behind the Party slogan: "No More Gin, No More Sin."

The Crimson quotes the Prohibition club's president as saying, with laudable caution: "We may not beat Roosevelt or Willkie, but I'm certain we can beat the devil." The secretary-treasurer of the organization is the son of a prominent Louisville distiller.

P.S.—He and the president are in hopes of signing up a third member shortly.

The "Unpressed Press" . . .

The president of Union College, Schenectady, N.Y., and the august New York Times have been having a little controversy in which the respectable Times strikes one as being somehow out of character. In a letter to the journal, the college president complains about the editorial get-up of the members of the Fourth Estate who were assigned to cover the recent two-hundredth anniversary of the University of Pennsylvania.

"Most of them," he says, "wore no coats or neckties, but gave all an excellent view of their suspenders." He continues, asking if

Commerce Leads Entries For Interfaculty Tennis

Draw Sheet Posting Shows Large Entry

COURT QUEENS VIE FOR PRIZE

Lists to Be Posted in R.V.C.

Deadline Saturday Noon — Tournament to Start on Monday

Some seventy names were on the Entry Lists for the Annual Inter-Faculty Tennis Tournament when the deadline was reached yesterday at 2:00 p.m. Of this number Commerce took the lead with 18 entrants, Science was second with 13, Arts in third position with 12, Engineering a close fourth with 11, and Medicine right on the heels of the Plumbers with 10. Other Faculties which are represented are Law, Theology and the Graduate School.

With such an even spread of entrants in the five first-mentioned Faculties, competition should really prove to be keen. Each Faculty will receive one point for every man who participates in the first round and from then on will receive an additional point for each additional round its entrant succeeds in surviving. The winner of the Tournament is to receive an extra bonus of five points and the runner-up will get three points for his efforts.

Stress Punctuality.

The following players have been seeded: Jean Richer (Eng.), Don Robinson (Grad.), Ross Culley (Comm.), Bob Finlay (Arts), Doug Mann (Comm.), Heinz Heinrich (Eng.), Alan Thomson (Med.), and Peter Landry (Eng.).

A complete Draw-sheet has been made up and is now posted at the Tennis Courts with names and telephone numbers of all entrants. All participants are asked to refer to this daily in order to keep up with last minute details of matches. All games must be played on the day that they are scheduled. If for any reason the hour given must be changed then the individual responsible for the change must get in touch with his opponent and arrange the change of time. Results of matches must be reported to the Court Attendant, Bob Hembling. Players desiring any additional information are requested to get in touch with Tennis Manager, Ross Culley. Each day a list of the matches to be played on that day will appear in the McGill Daily and contestants are asked to watch for it closely.

Oldster Views Rugger — Past And Present

Taylor, Oldest Graduate, Was on 1870 Team

By T. B.

There are probably many aspirants to the distinction of being 'Earliest Living Graduate of McGill' but that any of them graduated before 1874 seems unlikely.

A. Dunbar Taylor, K.C., '74, played English Rugby for McGill throughout seven seasons. He came in 1870 and graduated in Arts in 1874. He travelled on the Continent for two years then returned to McGill to study Law for three years.

Asked to make comparison between Football Past and Present, he said: "I expressed my views on present-day Football in a letter written not long ago to the McGill News. I called the present brand 'The illegitimate son of the English game and a Hollywood divorcee, inheriting some of the good qualities of the father plus all its mother's love of spectacle.' I see no reason to change my opinion. I may say that my letter was not published."

After leaving McGill Mr. Taylor had a brilliant career as a lawyer in Vancouver, where he was made K.C.

There was a saying that: "If Taylor turns up, and turns up sober."

The case is just as good as over."

Being suddenly confronted with Mr. Taylor was something of a shock. In spite of a perfect white mustache and snowy hair it is difficult to believe that here is a man who was blocking rushes before the Boche set the ball rolling in the Franco-Prussian War. He is a nephew of Peter Redpath who presented the library and a grandson of John Redpath, the first President of McGill.

He says there is little chance of the family's dying out since John Redpath had twelve children of whom eleven married. He himself celebrates his 87th birthday on the twelfth of this month.

TRACKSTERS TO BEGIN TRAINING

Annual Sports Day Set for October 18

Facilities of New Gymnasium Open to All Entrants

Coach Van Wagner has started his autumn track season and is making ready for the opening meet at Molson Stadium on Friday, October eighteenth, having cancelled the previously scheduled O.T.C. events. A call was sent out for all applications for this latter affair of the forces. However a lack of entries led to the coach's decision for the withdrawal. As regards the 18th, lectures will be postponed.

All entries should be in by October 16. It is also hoped that many newcomers will take to the cinder track before this and will turn out on the set day. Complete equipment and lockers are available free of charge.

Each entry will receive two points and the first six will be entered in the scoring. The larger faculties, in order to even up the results, will be given fewer points than their less numerous co-students. Special attention must be made to the fact that the military field sports have been cancelled.

Sports Notices

SPORT MANAGERS

All class sports managers together with the faculty sports managers are requested to meet Friday at five p.m. at the Athletic office. The Soccer, Softball, and Football officials will also kindly attend.

the reporters, considering themselves more intelligent than those they report. "I acquire a sort of contempt for public ceremonies as a playground for stuffed shirts."

The Times, in reply, agrees that "a journalist, covering an address of the President of the United States at a 200th anniversary of a famous institution of learning might gracefully take his hat off." However, it continues thus: "There is a kind of honesty and informality in American reporting which would be lost if reform went much further than this. The kept press in some European countries can be counted on to wear pin-striped trousers, a cutaway with a gardenia, and a high hat. Somehow the American reporter, whose pants may need pressing, but who is free to write the news as he finds it, is a happier spectacle."

So be it.

At the crack of the whip the snorting steeds drew up before the pillars of the palace, and our Marc swanggers in to greet his royal love. Historians of the more lurid school record that as the happy couple went into the first clinch of the evening, the flunkies round about poured goals' milk on the wooden effects and perishable objects d'art as the fire-underwriters had refused to insure the palace after the coming of the Roman Romeo. Is it reasonable to believe that these torrid tele-a-tetes went on sans any "kissing on the lips"? Of course, Cleo did not have the benefits of Campana's famous skin softener (Italian Balm), but probably found some other means of assuring an erotic epidermis.

All of which is sort of beating around the mulberry bush; the purpose of this column being, at present, to present a scientific analysis of the kiss, which analysis may, we think, bear fruit in several directions, we hope. What a fine thing it would be, indeed, indeed, if that 99 out of 100 who want to be kissed, could be raised to the full century, making everybody happy all around. (In view of the fact that a blind date is almost always one of the inhibited hundredth.)

Now what, after all, is the kiss, but an approximation of the lips? And what, indeed (and after all) are the lips, but "two fleshy folds which surround the orifice of the mouth" (in the words of Mr. Gray). Rendered in scientific terms, the ordinary form of the kiss, which is the only form we shall have occasion or opportunity to discuss here, consists of "the intimate contact of two pairs of lips along an epidermal area bounded laterally by the labial commissures and inferiorly and superiorly by the free margins of the lips." (Reference: Schinglepfoop's treatise on "The Variations in Cardiac Rhythm during a Thirty-five Second Kiss".)

So it is seen that the kiss is really a simple thing, an infinitely simple thing, and should possibly be practiced with more abandon. And now, in the words of Marc Antony, who thumbed his nose at Caesar for the flower of Egypt:

Let's not found the time with conference harsh;
There's not a minute if our lives should stretch
Without some pleasure now. What sport tonight?

the high tension lab and the gas lab. In the high tension lab twelve and fourteen-inch spark gaps of the finest bluish colour were dancing around the different type insulators and the voltage was somewhere in the vicinity of 150,000 volts. In the gas lab, a 1933 Chevrolet engine was set up and it was speeded up until it reached a top speed of close to ninety miles per hour.

The gathering then adjourned to the first year draughting room where refreshments were served. Some of the Freshmen were quite disappointed when they found that all they could get were soft drinks, no beer. But Fred Barton soon put them right when he told them that they were the finest bunch he'd seen in a long time and he didn't want to spoil them.

presentative and the organizers of the different sports.

Until final arrangements are made, sports will continue on an intramural basis and points won will be noted and later awarded to the company of the winner. While on this subject, golfers are reminded of the annual Interfaculty golf tournament which officials hope to stage at Islesmere, October 16th. The student-professor golf match will also be staged this year, more details to be announced later.

IMPROVEMENTS

A brief summary of the expected benefits of the new athletic system might now be in order. Although Intercollegiate sports are gone for a while, with all their excitement and glamour, some good may be expected from the new system. With companies of about equal size competing against each other, there will be no more of the sometimes amusing, often discouraging disparity in numbers of the opposing teams; no more cases of a certain small faculty being desperately combed for anyone who knew which end was which on a hockey stick in order to get six men to play against a half dozen selected with some difficulty from about 30 all eager to play for another faculty.

There may be some difficulty in arranging schedules to fit in with timetables and to make this easier, might we suggest that some sort of lighting system be put up on the field above Molson Stadium. Here is an excellent field for soccer or football and as far as we know, not used at night by the military.

IT REALLY HAPPENED.

To get back to the "Double" part of this column. This one came to us last night from "unimpeachable sources." At the so-called Wiener Roast, the other night, the eagle eye of a senior engineer (Gad sir! what are the seniors coming to? Going to freshmen dances?) lighted upon a sweet, demure freshette. A gleam entered the eye and the engineer true to his class, advanced upon the green-ribboned bit of sweetness and requested the honor of a dance.

"What faculty are you in?" she queried. Our hero proudly proclaimed himself an engineer.

The pretty freshette seemed to shrink into her chair. "Oh no!" she gasped. "I've heard all about you engineers. I can't dance with you!"

"Hummum! Sometimes we wonder if we engineers can possibly be as bad as we're painted."

To finish off—a little reminder to those of you who have been bawling the loss of those crisp Saturday afternoons at Molson stadium, the thudding of leather (and all the other stuff about bands, crowds etc. which are usually added at this point to create football atmosphere). Well, just bring your medical card or a ticket from the Athletic Office to the Stadium Saturday afternoon where a block of free seats are reserved for students. One bit of atmosphere that we can guarantee will be there, will be the engineers with their age-old battle cry—

"Room for one!"

So you're praying for a crop failure.
Yep, I've sown a bunch of wild oats. —Gateway.

STENOGRAPHY COURSE OFFERED TO STUDENTS

The Faculty of Arts, Science and Commerce of Sir George Williams College in the Montreal Y.M.C.A. announce a course in Stenography for University students.

Arrangements have been made so that these students may take shorthand and type-writing in a two-year course. Classes are to be held from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. on two afternoons a week, from October to May.

This course was added due to the belief of the Faculty to offer students in college and university an opportunity to broaden their educational programme. Further information may be had upon request at the Registrar's office in the Central Y.M.C.A.

BAND MEMBERS TO PRACTISE IN UNION

"Plans are proceeding on the organization of this year's McGill band," stated the manager last night. "Last year's scarlet uniforms will not be worn since the band will, in effect become a part of the C.O.T.C. wearing its regular uniforms."

All former members have been requested to turn out and all who can play instruments urged to be at the special meeting at the Union tomorrow at 5:30 p.m.

Band practices will be held twice weekly and this year the band will play for all C.O.T.C. route marches. Registration will take place each afternoon, from 5:30 to 6:00 p.m. at the Union.

MCGILL NEWMAN CLUB STARTS A NEW YEAR

The McGill Newman Club will hold its first bi-monthly meeting in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Church, on Sunday morning, October 6, at 9:45.

The Club's executive has stated that the meeting will be very informal and there will be no regular speaker. The chief purpose this Sunday is to give the Catholic fresh on the campus a chance to become acquainted before regular meetings get under way. They are requested to wear their green bows and not to hesitate in saying hello.

The Chaplain in attendance will be the Rev. J. Ernest Cooney. There is to be breakfast following.

"WHY WAS CLEOPATRA NEVER KISSED?" or THE DOCTOR LOOKS AT ANCIENT HISTORY!

"Why was Cleopatra never kissed?"—authorities apparently agree that kissing, on the lips, as a sign of affection, did not begin until after Cleopatra's time . . . (adapted for Campana's Italian Balm in the December Movie Mirror).

In the mystic land of Egypt
By the waters of the Nile,
Marc and Cleopatra
Had fun for quite a while.
(From an old Babylonian papyrus).

Hats off to Campana's imaginative copy-writer, but surely he trifles with the truth. Perchance he jests. 'Tis but idle rumor that would rank the Antony and Cleo idyll below the average front-parlor, garden-variety, down-to-earth emotion displayed by lads and lassies in every town, village and hamlet of the fair Canadian countryside. We may rest assured that no evening in Antony's Egyptian episode was complete without the touch of Cleo's lips against his own. One can imagine this "triple pillar of the world transformed into a strumpet's fool" (what-ho) smokin' through the streets of Alexandria in his gilded chariot, beating it for Cleo's hacienda like a bat out of Hades.
